MOA | Museum of Anthropology

Place Category: Indigenous Culture and Museums & Heritage Sites

Just 20 minutes from downtown Vancouver and the Vancouver International Airport, the Museum of Anthropology, located at the University of British Columbia, houses one of the world's finest displays of Northwest Coast First Nations art in a spectacular Arthur Erickson-designed building overlooking mountains and sea. Inside the soaring glass and concrete structure of MOA's Great Hall, see magnificent totem poles, weavings and contemporary artworks. Admire the world's largest collection of works by Northwest Coast artist Bill Reid, including his famous cedar sculpture The Raven and the First Men, and see over 9,000 objects from around the world are displayed. MOA also features traditional Haida houses, poles and Masqueam house posts and a wide range of contemporary art and design. Enjoy a wide range of expertly-curated exhibitions for an expertly-
