BC's Guide to Arts & Culture

weekly BC ARTS + CULTURE digest

Bringing Local Arts & Culture to You

While we're staying local, let's explore our own and other Creative Communities virtually! This spring for instance, the City of Richmond is teeming with virtual and interactive arts & culture events. Staying put in your zone, travel virtually to your favourite theatres, galleries and museums! See what's on in Richmond.

Richmond Art Gallery

As part of 'Digital Carnival Z', in partnership with Cinevolution: 'UNION' is a virtual sci-fi exhibition set in the year 3000, created by featured artists Nancy Lee and Kiran Bhumber! Until June 5th, this annual flagship event is presenting poetry, dance, video and interactive media.

encourages reflection, & facilitates discussion.

Hosted by JD Derbyshire

1:00PM PST Saturday, May 15 2021
via Zoom | pay what you can Register: gatewaytheatre.com/mental-health

On May 15th, performance artist and creator of the hit show 'Certified' JD Derbyshire will be hosting 'Mad Practice: Sanity Skills for Crazy Times' - a mental health Zoom event! In a space where humour and grief co-exist, JD will facilitate discussion, laughter, tears and more!

Branscombe House

Led by Artist-In-Residence Rachel Rozanski, 'Weaving with Invasive Species' is a two-part Zoom workshop wherein participants will learn how to identify, gather and weave the local (and plentiful) plants around them. Plus - a special visit from multimedia artist, Gay Mitchell!

Gulf of Georgia Cannery

The online heritage exhibition 'From Tides to Tins: Salmon Canning in BC' is ready to explore! Step into the shoes of a fictional Cannery Manager and try your hand at a role-playing game – find out if you are able to successfully build and operate your own cannery.
